TRADITIONAL AND MODERN

The Museum

Stuttgart-Uhlbach is not just a delightful little wine-growing community with a long tradition. It's also the heart of Swabian wine culture: 2000 years of wine-growing history in the Middle Neckar region are gathered together under one roof at the Stuttgart Museum of Viniculture in the former Old Winepress in Uhlbach. The huge timbered building dating from the year 1907 was thoroughly modernised in 2012 and many new highlights were added to the exhibition.

The glass Vinothek

The main eyecatcher inside Uhlbach's Old Winepress is the new Vinothek extending over two floors, whose uncluttered design tunes in perfectly with the original structure. Within its pleasant ambience visitors can sample the first-class wines produced by Stuttgart's vintners and take some of their favourites home with them. From the spacious glass construction guests have a good view of the interior architecture of the historical building – an ideal place to linger for those thirsting after both wine and knowledge.

Even if you've already been to the museum, the Vinothek is always worth another visit and looks forward to welcoming you during museum opening hours!

A wine tasting to round off your visit

On the wine list of the museum's Vinothek you'll find first-class wines produced by more than 20 different Stuttgart vintners and sparkling wine producers. The selection of wines and champagnes alternates monthly, so there are always new and delicious varieties to discover – which you can also take home with you. Snacks from the kitchen complement the wines on offer.

By prior arrangement there are also wine tastings available with choice local wines that demonstrate Stuttgart's diversity as a wine-growing region, with short commentaries on the different wines sampled.

All you've ever wanted to know about wine

Rare exhibits from past centuries in state-of-the-art museum architecture give an overview of the production methods and characteristics of wine. The exhibition takes you through the long history and the many different properties of the juice of the vine, which has enjoyed great popularity in the region of Swabia ever since the early 12th century. Find out all about historical and contemporary wine-producing techniques and the original equipment used, smell for yourself the characteristic fruit aromas in the wine bouquet, learn how the Swabian "Bodagfährtle" (terroir) influences the flavour and discover lots more interesting and curious facts about wine in general.

Wine in Art

The elaborate woodcarvings, charcoal drawings and oil paintings of the well-known Stuttgart artist Eugen Häfele (1922-2008) are dedicated to the theme of wine and depict scenes from the everyday work of the vintners.
